HEALTH SYSTEMS STRENGTHENING

One assessment and one ranked list for every nurse internship place in Lagos

Every BNSc graduate needs twelve months at an NMCN-approved centre before full registration, and the places are far fewer than the graduates. Today each centre advertises, sorts CVs and sets its own exam, and each graduate applies one hospital at a time. We propose one application, one assessment and a ranked list for each centre. The centre keeps the interview and the decision.

1

The graduate applies once

BNSc graduates apply in one place and rank up to five approved centres.

2

One assessment

42 questions in 50 minutes, drawn evenly from 7 areas of practice, timed and marked by us.

3

Your ranked list

You see only the graduates who chose you, at or above your minimum score, best first.

4

You interview and decide

Invite, offer or pass with one click. A graduate who accepts a place is released from every other list.

Why it matters beyond one hospital

- Fair entry. A score-based list the graduate can see, in place of a process graduate nurses have told the Minister is opaque.
- A common standard. 42 questions in 50 minutes across 7 areas of practice, the same baseline for every intern.
- Planning data. Oversubscribed centres and scores by area and university, shared in aggregate with the state and the regulator.
- Alongside NMCN. The central posting scheme is approved and awaiting funding, starting with federal hospitals. This covers every centre now.

What we ask of your centre

- The number of places you will take in 2027, and when they start.
- The minimum score you would interview, which you can change once you see the list.
- A named contact with a login, and a decision within three weeks of receiving your list.

No fee to the centre for the 2027 intake, and nothing to the graduate. Graduates who have already chosen your centre will be waiting, ranked, when you join.
