DR DEBO ODULANA

Founding Partner, Consult for Africa

BIOGRAPHY

Dr Debo Odulana is a physician and healthcare operator with sixteen years in hospital leadership, health system strategy and building healthcare ventures across Africa, the Middle East and the UK. He is Founding Partner of Consult for Africa, which strategises, builds and operates healthcare businesses for hospital groups, investors and founders.

As Chief Executive of Cedarcrest Hospitals Abuja, he took the hospital to more than N1bn in monthly revenue and more than N1bn of EBITDA in a single half-year, the best results in its history. At Evercare Hospital Lekki he took $1.1m a year out of costs and designed Evercare Advantage, a model for expanding the network without capital. He founded Doctoora, built it into a provider network across 21 states and sold it to Evercare.

During the pandemic he was Chief Information Officer of the Eti-Osa COVID-19 Isolation and Treatment Centre. There he delivered the technology for a 90-bed field hospital in six weeks, including a 10-bed ICU with remote monitoring. Earlier he worked on process improvement at Hammersmith Hospital in the NHS, and on care model design for what is now Evercare Hospital Lagos.

He is President of Doctors Foundation for Care, which has more than 800 diaspora-trained Nigerian physicians, and an Independent Non-Executive Director of Havana Specialist Hospital. He holds an MBBS from the University of Sharjah and an MSc in International Health Management from Imperial College Business School.
