MEDLYFE INTRODUCES

Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward

How you feel and how you look are the same appointment, and almost nobody in this city treats them that way.

Medlyfe introduces Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, promoted by Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa.

ONE EVENING, SEVEN WEEKS, ALL IN

NGN 15.9m

THURSDAY 15 OCTOBER 2026

133 in the room

For Dr Itunu Akinware and Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa

Your patients are already buying both halves. They are buying them in two different places.

A woman who sleeps badly, has put on weight she cannot shift and hates what her skin is doing has one problem. She is currently taking it to a gym, a dermatologist and a wellness clinic that do not speak to each other. Medlyfe already has both halves under one roof and has never said so out loud.

The theme came from Medlyfe's lead clinician, not from us, which is the best possible provenance for it. It is what the clinic already believes, said out loud for the first time.

- Within. Metabolic and weight management, hormones, longevity programmes, IV therapy and the diagnostics underneath them.
- Outward. Skin, injectables and the regenerative treatments, and in time the surgical line.
- The evening. One room, both halves argued by the clinicians who do them, with the menu and the prices said out loud.

Where	Title
The evening and the panel	Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward
The conversation and Dr Kpaduwa's introduction	The Art of Looking Like Yourself

A series, not a launch. The launch is over by breakfast.

Each edition introduces something worth introducing. This one carries the cost of the format, the identity, the set, the film library, the guest list and the press relationships. The next three inherit all of it, and Dr Kpaduwa is back three times next year.

What edition one builds	How it carries over
The format and the run of show	Refined each time rather than reinvented
The series identity	Built as a format rather than as Medlyfe livery, so the invitation, the print, the stage and the film carry whichever name is hosting. Both names share the Lyfe root, so the audience reads edition two as the same series
The set, the crew and the portrait library	Shot once, added to on each visit
The guest list and the doctor list	They grow rather than restart
The press relationships	Worth more on the second approach than the first
The website, the enquiry form and the consent record	Built once, rebadged for each edition

Medlyfe takes the booking. Dr Kpaduwa fills the room.

Three layers, and keeping them in this order is what makes the evening work commercially and stay proper.

Layer	What it says	Why
The headline	Medlyfe, and the theme	Medlyfe is trading, licensed and bookable, so it is the brand that carries the evening and takes the booking on the night.
The agenda	Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa, prominently	She opens the conversation, sits on the panel and is in the room afterwards. Without her name the October diary does not clear.
The fine print	Medlyfe introduces Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, promoted by Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa.	Set small, in three places only, and never said from the stage. Enough to plant the venture, not enough to look like the opening of a clinic that is still being built.

HOW SHE IS DESCRIBED

Promoter is a business role. That is what makes it sayable.

Her licence arrangements are still in train, so nothing presents her as here to take patients. Promoting a company she is building is true, sayable and depends on nothing being finalised.

	What goes out
We say	Promoter of Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology
We say	Clinical lead behind the Medlyfe aesthetic service
We say	Treatment delivered by Medlyfe's own registered clinicians
Never	Not here to start seeing patients
Never	No appointments with her
Never	No surgical dates and no surgical promises

It is also the stronger position. An evening built on a visiting surgeon sells a diary that runs out when she boards a plane. This one sells a service that is open every week.

Medlyfe first, then the panel, then Chinwe, then the menu.

		Run of show, Thursday 15 October 2026
18:30	Arrival	Cocktails, DJ under the conversation, the portrait wall. The consultation desk open from the door, staffed, diary live
19:15	Welcome and the film	Five minutes. A short welcome, then ninety seconds cut from the shoot the week before
19:20	Medlyfe, presented	Fifteen minutes, and the longest single item on the platform after the panel, because it is Medlyfe's evening. The clinic, the two halves, what has been built this year and who the clinicians are
19:35	The panel	Thirty minutes on Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward, across the wellness side and the aesthetic side. The proposition gets argued before anybody is introduced
20:05	In conversation with Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa	Twenty minutes, hosted, under its own title, The Art of Looking Like Yourself. The peak of the evening. The promoter of Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology on what she is building, what good work looks like, and what she will not have done
20:25	The services, and what they cost	Fifteen minutes. What Medlyfe offers on each side, what each thing is for, who it suits, and the price
20:40	Questions from the room	Fifteen minutes, chaired
20:55	The room	The desk taking bookings, Dr Kpaduwa and the clinic team available, press interviews in the side room
21:30	Close	The takeaway handed to every guest on the way out

Medlyfe gets a proper fifteen minutes of its own before anything else, because it is Medlyfe's evening and a two minute welcome would have said the opposite. The panel then argues the theme while the room is still settling into it, with Medlyfe's own clinicians on the platform before anybody is introduced. Dr Kpaduwa closes the platform rather than opening it, which makes her the peak, and her conversation runs straight into the menu while the room is at its warmest.

The half hour between 20:25 and 20:55 is what pays for the night.

Most evenings of this kind leave the menu out, and that is why they do not convert. The service walk through tells the room what is actually available on each side and what it costs. The questions that follow turn private curiosity into a public conversation, and the half hour afterwards is when a woman who has just heard an honest answer walks to the desk.

- Within Each programme named, what it is for, who it suits, how long it runs, and the fact that it can start the following week
- Outward Skin, injectables and the regenerative treatments, said honestly, including what the evidence does and does not support
- What is coming Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, and what it will add. Described as being built, with no dates offered
- What it costs Published on the night, because a room that has to ask assumes the worst

Everything before that half hour exists to make it possible. The desk is staffed from the door, not set up at nine.

A hundred and thirty three people, invited by hand and chased by telephone.

Who	How many	Why them
Medlyfe's own patients and members	45	The warmest list in the building and the most likely to book on the night
The corporate channel	25	Senior women inside the group's corporate clients, through the executive wellness lists
Invited guests of the hosts	30	Three hosts who are professional women with real networks, invited as peers and not paid
Referring doctors	25	Dermatology, obstetrics and gynaecology, bariatric and metabolic medicine, family medicine and dentistry, invited as guests
Press	8	Health, business and lifestyle desks, plus two interview slots in the side room
Total	133

An emailed invitation to a woman of this profile is not an invitation. Printed, delivered, then telephoned, is the difference between this room and half of it.

The shoot is the centre of the campaign, not the evening.

One controlled day makes the portraits, the interview masters, the ninety second film and the footage the education series is cut from. It can only be made while she is in the country.

	When	What runs
Before	Weeks 1 to 3	The announcement of what Medlyfe now offers across both halves of the theme, issued with the portrait set to health, business and lifestyle desks. Two preview interviews recorded under embargo. Invitations by hand and then by telephone, because a printed invitation followed by a call fills a room and an email does not.
On the night	Week 3	Press in the room with two interview slots in the side room, and the crew covering the evening.
After	Weeks 4 to 8	The preview interviews land. One broadcast or podcast appearance. The education series publishes weekly, eight short films and four written pieces cut from the masters, split across the two halves of the theme. The takeaway goes behind the enquiry form, which is what turns a reader into a name.

Four lines we hold, and none of them costs us anything we wanted.

A licensed clinic launching a service and introducing the people behind it is ordinary professional practice. The rules bite narrowly, in four places worth knowing precisely rather than avoiding vaguely.

- Nobody is paid to bring us a patient No commission to a doctor, a salon, a concierge or a host, and no influencer arrangement, paid or gifted. Paying a moderator to chair a panel is a different thing and is perfectly proper.
- No claim that anyone is better than anyone else Training, board certification and what a clinician does are statements of fact and are properly said. No best, no first, no only.
- Clinical images only on explicit written consent Required by the Council's guidance on online conduct of 14 October 2025. None of it in this window in any case.
- No branded giveaways Part F names the category down to calendars and wall clocks. The takeaway is a piece of writing, not merchandise.

Capacity is the ceiling, not demand.

The list would support 101 consultations. Medlyfe can hold 80 in the four weeks after the evening. The constraint on this programme is the clinic diary, which also means it is not fragile to the marketing underperforming.

373 qualified names is the asset. Everything else on this slide is a consequence of it.

By 13 November	Target
Qualified names, with consent	373
Consultations held	80
Doctors who have agreed to refer	15
Registered interest in the surgical service	20

It pays for itself before she travels, and the Medlyfe half is what does it.

A surgeon led evening would have left almost all of the return sitting in a surgical list that cannot open this year. Putting the wellness side on the same stage changes that, because programmes sell from the Monday after and wait on nothing.

Inside the window	Basis	Value
Aesthetic treatment	32 of 80 consultations at 300k, a quarter returning once	NGN 11.84m
Wellness and metabolic programmes	16 of 80 at 450k, programme priced	NGN 7.20m
Revenue before 13 November	Earned by Medlyfe	NGN 19.04m
Against a programme costing		NGN 15.89m

The evening and the campaign return NGN 19.0m of revenue inside the window against NGN 15.9m of cost, so the whole programme is paid for before Dr Kpaduwa travels, with NGN 3.2m over. The NGN 100m of registered surgical interest sits on top of that.

Suppliers at cost, and we charge what it costs us to run.

	Amount
The evening	NGN 8.86m
The campaign	NGN 4.83m
Website and print	NGN 1.20m
Programme costs, at cost, no commission or mark up	NGN 14.89m
CFA operational cost, recovered, not a fee	NGN 1.00m
Total	NGN 15.89m

CFA is a shareholder, so on the launch edition we charge cost and nothing else: no rate card, no margin, no management fee. Nineteen days of our own time are not billed. That is specific to this edition and is not the basis for the services agreement.

Two and a half weeks, and it starts this week or the date moves.

	Dates	What happens
Week 1	28 Sep to 2 Oct	Venue contracted by Wednesday. Theme and identity signed off. Both guest lists built from Medlyfe's book, the corporate channel, the three hosts and the doctor list. Panel and chair approached. Enquiry form and booking page live. Invitation designed and at the printer by Thursday. The telephone calls start Wednesday, ahead of the card rather than after it.
Week 2	5 to 9 Oct	Shoot on Monday: portraits, interview masters and the ninety second film, one day on a controlled set. The Medlyfe presentation, the panel brief and the conversation built Monday and Tuesday. Announcement issued Monday. Preview interviews recorded under embargo. Cards delivered against calls already made, and the telephone chase runs all week.
Week 3	12 to 16 Oct	Final numbers Monday and the room re-called Tuesday, because a list built ten days out decays. Supplier confirmations and the set in on Wednesday. Run through Wednesday afternoon. Thursday 15 October 2026, with the crew and the press in the room. Follow up begins inside 48 hours, which means Friday.

The venue has to be contracted and the invitations at the printer by Friday. If that slips the evening moves to Thursday 22 October and the conversion window loses a quarter of its length.

TO START

Three decisions, and the printer takes the invitation on Friday.

1	Approve the budget	Dr Itunu Akinware	NGN 0.80m on approval
2	Confirm the date and the 10 days	Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa	Thursday 15 October 2026, and the shoot the week before
3	Name the four Medlyfe people	Dr Itunu Akinware	Coordinator, marketing, operations, clinic lead

The shoot and the evening are the two things that cannot be done after Chinwe travels. Everything else can be rebuilt next year at the same price.
