MEDLYFE INTRODUCES

Edition one: Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward. Thursday 15 October 2026

Itunu, Chinwe,

Here is the evening and the campaign around it.

The date is now Thursday 15 October 2026, which gives us two and a half weeks. That is tight but workable, and it holds only if the venue is contracted and the invitations are at the printer by Friday. Otherwise it becomes Thursday 22 October and the conversion window loses a quarter of its length.

The bigger change is that the evening now leads with Medlyfe rather than with Chinwe, under your own lead clinician's line, Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward. I would not have written a better one and it is worth saying that it came from inside the clinic. The woman we want has one problem and is currently taking it to three places, and Medlyfe is the only clinic on that stretch of Lekki with both halves already under one roof.

It also changes the economics, which was not the reason for doing it but is the best argument for it. The evening and the campaign return NGN 19.0m of revenue inside the window against NGN 15.9m of cost, so the whole programme is paid for before Dr Kpaduwa travels, with NGN 3.2m over. A surgeon led evening would have stored almost all of that in a surgical list that cannot open this year. The workings are in section 10.

Chinwe stays on the agenda and stays the reason a curated list accepts an invitation in October. She opens the conversation, she is on the panel, and she is in the room afterwards. What has moved is the billing rather than the prominence. Medlyfe is the name on the invitation and the name that takes the booking, because Medlyfe is licensed and trading and can see somebody on the Monday. That Medlyfe is introducing Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, promoted by Chinwe, sits in the fine print on the invitation footer, the programme card and the press note, which plants the venture without launching a clinic that is not built.

There is a practical benefit in that order, worth saying plainly. Promoter is a business role. Chinwe is building a company, which is true and sayable and waits on nothing, whereas anything that reads as her taking patients does wait on something. The fine print is not shyness, it is the framing that is both accurate and useful.

The budget is NGN 15.9m all in. NGN 14.9m of that is suppliers at cost with nothing on top, and NGN 1.0m is what running it costs us, which is all we are charging. Nineteen days of our own time are in it and are not billed.

Three decisions on the last page, and the first has to happen this week.

Warm regards,
Dr Debo Odulana
Founding Partner, Consult for Africa

01 / THE IDEA

A series, not a launch.

MEDLYFE INTRODUCES is a recurring Medlyfe evening. Each edition introduces something worth introducing: a proposition, a service, a clinician. This one introduces the way Medlyfe now treats the inside and the outside as one appointment, and it is the expensive one, because it pays for the format, the identity, the set, the film library, the guest list and the press relationships that every edition after it reuses.

The alternative is a launch party, and the problem with a launch is that it is over. It produces one night of photographs, and the next time there is news the whole thing is built again from nothing. Chinwe is back three times next year. A series gives each of those visits a reason for a room to assemble, and gives the practice something that compounds rather than something that is spent.

Medlyfe is the right host for this one, because it is trading and licensed and can take a booking on the night, which nothing newly incorporated can. The series then carries the house brand, Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology on the working name, from the second edition onward. It moves when that brand is ready, and the format is built to travel from the start rather than adapted later.

That handover is the reason the design brief is what it is. If the identity is built as Medlyfe livery it has to be thrown away in February, and if it is built as a second logo it competes with the host. So it is built as a format: a typographic system, a portrait treatment, an invitation and a print size, carrying Medlyfe's marks this time and Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology's next time, with everything else unchanged.

What edition one builds that the next three inherit

	How it carries over
The format and the run of show	Refined each time rather than reinvented
The series identity	Built as a format rather than as Medlyfe livery, so the invitation, the print, the stage and the film carry whichever name is hosting. Both names share the Lyfe root, so the audience reads edition two as the same series
The set, the crew and the portrait library	Shot once, added to on each visit
The guest list and the doctor list	They grow rather than restart
The press relationships	Worth more on the second approach than the first
The website, the enquiry form and the consent record	Built once, rebadged for each edition

02 / THE THEMES

One for the evening, one for Dr Kpaduwa's half.

How you feel and how you look are the same appointment, and almost nobody in this city treats them that way.

The theme came from Medlyfe's lead clinician, not from us, which is the best possible provenance for it. It is what the clinic already believes, said out loud for the first time. We have kept it as the banner for the evening and the title of the panel, and given Dr Kpaduwa's segment its own title inside it, because her argument is sharper than the evening's and deserves its own name.

Where	Title	What it carries
The evening and the panel	Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward	From Medlyfe's lead clinician. The proposition the clinic already holds, argued in public for the first time, across the wellness side and the aesthetic side.
The conversation and Dr Kpaduwa's introduction	The Art of Looking Like Yourself	Her own clinical position, which is that the skill is judgement and the best result is the one nobody can point at. It is the outward half of the evening theme, taken to its sharpest point.

A woman who sleeps badly, has put on weight she cannot shift and does not like what her skin is doing has one problem. She is currently taking it to a gym, a dermatologist and a wellness clinic that do not speak to one another, and she is paying three times for a worse answer. Medlyfe already has both halves under one roof and has never said so out loud.

So the theme is not a strapline written for a party. It is the proposition, and the evening is the first time it gets argued in public by the clinicians who do the work.

The two halves	What sits in each
Within	Metabolic and weight management, hormones, longevity programmes, IV therapy and the diagnostics underneath them. Programme priced, and sellable from the Monday after
Outward	Skin, injectables and the regenerative treatments, delivered by Medlyfe's own registered clinicians to Dr Kpaduwa's protocols
What is coming	Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, described as being built, with no dates offered

The commercial consequence matters more than the creative one. An evening built only on the surgical side would store almost all of its value in a list that cannot open this year. Putting the wellness half on the same stage means the programme earns inside the window, because those programmes are priced, available and wait on nothing.

03 / HOW IT IS BILLED

Medlyfe takes the booking. Dr Kpaduwa fills the room.

Three layers, and keeping them in this order is what makes the evening work commercially and stay proper.

	What it says	Why
The headline	Medlyfe, and the theme	Medlyfe is trading, licensed and bookable, so it is the brand that carries the evening and takes the booking on the night.
The agenda	Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa, prominently	She opens the conversation, sits on the panel and is in the room afterwards. Without her name the October diary does not clear.
The fine print	Medlyfe introduces Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, promoted by Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa.	Set small, in three places only, and never said from the stage. Enough to plant the venture, not enough to look like the opening of a clinic that is still being built.

Promoter is a business role, not a clinical one. That distinction is what lets the fine print run at all, and it is why the line names a venture rather than a practitioner. The full set of what goes out and what never does is in section 08.

04 / THE EVENING

Medlyfe first, then the panel, then Chinwe, then the menu.

One room, three hours, 133 people. It is a social evening with substance in the middle of it, not a conference and not a party. The consultation desk is open from the moment the doors do, because the single biggest failure in an evening like this is a room full of interested women who leave without an appointment.

		Run of show, Thursday 15 October 2026
18:30	Arrival	Cocktails, DJ under the conversation, the portrait wall. The consultation desk open from the door, staffed, diary live
19:15	Welcome and the film	Five minutes. A short welcome, then ninety seconds cut from the shoot the week before
19:20	Medlyfe, presented	Fifteen minutes, and the longest single item on the platform after the panel, because it is Medlyfe's evening. The clinic, the two halves, what has been built this year and who the clinicians are
19:35	The panel	Thirty minutes on Feel Good Within and Look Better Outward, across the wellness side and the aesthetic side. The proposition gets argued before anybody is introduced
20:05	In conversation with Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa	Twenty minutes, hosted, under its own title, The Art of Looking Like Yourself. The peak of the evening. The promoter of Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology on what she is building, what good work looks like, and what she will not have done
20:25	The services, and what they cost	Fifteen minutes. What Medlyfe offers on each side, what each thing is for, who it suits, and the price
20:40	Questions from the room	Fifteen minutes, chaired
20:55	The room	The desk taking bookings, Dr Kpaduwa and the clinic team available, press interviews in the side room
21:30	Close	The takeaway handed to every guest on the way out

Why that order. Medlyfe gets a proper fifteen minutes of its own before anything else, because it is Medlyfe's evening and a two minute welcome would have said the opposite. The panel then argues the theme while the room is still settling into it, with Medlyfe's own clinicians on the platform before anybody is introduced. Dr Kpaduwa closes the platform rather than opening it, which makes her the peak, and her conversation runs straight into the menu while the room is at its warmest.

The part that earns the money is between 20:25 and 20:55. The service walk through tells the room what is actually available and what it costs, the questions that follow turn private curiosity into a public conversation, and the half hour afterwards is when a woman who has just heard an honest answer walks to the desk. Everything before it exists to make that half hour possible.

05 / THE CHAT AND THE PANEL

Four people, and what each is there to do.

The panel, thirty five minutes, first

Who	What they are	Why they are on the panel
Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa	Plastic surgeon, board certified in the United States	The promoter of Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, and the outward half of the theme
Medlyfe's wellness physician	The inside half	Metabolic health, hormones, longevity and the diagnostics underneath them, which is the part of the proposition that can be sold from the following Monday
The Medlyfe clinician who delivers	Aesthetic lead	The room meets the person who will actually treat them, which answers the question everyone is too polite to ask
A chair the room respects	A founder, a lawyer or a broadcaster, not an influencer	Keeps it a conversation rather than a presentation

In conversation with Dr Kpaduwa, twenty five minutes

Hosted, warm, and personal rather than clinical. It is the room meeting her. The questions are agreed in advance with Dr Kpaduwa and nothing goes in that she has not approved.

- What she is building in Lagos and why she wanted it built inside Medlyfe rather than on her own
- How a surgeon decides who should have something done, and who should not
- Why the best work is the work nobody can point at, which is the whole of The Art of Looking Like Yourself
- What she will not have done in this clinic, and why that list matters more than the menu
- How the team is trained and signed off, which is what makes the standard hers even when she is not in the building

The services, walked through, fifteen minutes

This is the part most evenings leave out, and leaving it out is why most evenings do not convert. Delivered by the Medlyfe clinician with Dr Kpaduwa adding the surgical perspective, so the room sees the team it will actually be treated by.

	What is said
Within	Each programme named, what it is for, who it suits, how long it runs, and the fact that it can start the following week
Outward	Skin, injectables and the regenerative treatments, said honestly, including what the evidence does and does not support
What is coming	Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology, and what it will add. Described as being built, with no dates offered
What it costs	Published on the night, because a room that has to ask assumes the worst

06 / WHO IS IN THE ROOM

Curated, invited by hand, chased by telephone.

A guest list is the single highest leverage thing in an evening like this and it is where these events are usually lost. Invitations go out printed and by hand where it matters, and then every name is telephoned. An emailed invitation to a woman of this profile is not an invitation.

Who	Number	Why them
Medlyfe's own patients and members	45	The warmest list in the building and the most likely to book on the night
The corporate channel	25	Senior women inside the group's corporate clients, through the executive wellness lists
Invited guests of the hosts	30	Three hosts who are professional women with real networks, invited as peers and not paid
Referring doctors	25	Dermatology, obstetrics and gynaecology, bariatric and metabolic medicine, family medicine and dentistry, invited as guests
Press	8	Health, business and lifestyle desks, plus two interview slots in the side room

Who	Number	Why them
Total in the room	133

The doctors are in the same room rather than at their own evening, and that is a deliberate saving. Twenty five referring clinicians see a full room of the patients they look after, hear the surgeon think, and meet her over a drink. It starts the referral network without paying for a second night, and a dedicated clinical session can run properly at edition two, when there are cases to present.

07 / THE LOOK

The room has to demonstrate the argument.

	How it is done
Medlyfe hosts it, and the series is built to travel	Edition one carries Medlyfe's marks. Underneath them the series has its own quiet format, a typographic system and a portrait treatment rather than a second logo, so it continues as Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology Introduces without being designed again.
Two halves, one room	The theme has an inside and an outside, so the room does too. Warm low light and soft materials on one side, clean light and clear glass on the other, meeting in the middle where the panel sits.
Portraits, not stock	The only images in the room are the portraits made that week. No stock, no generic clinic imagery, and no patient photographs of any kind.
Music that lets people talk	A DJ, briefed rather than left to play a set. Under the conversation on arrival, silent through the chat and the panel, lifted once the room opens up again.
One object people take home	A short printed piece, “What to ask before anybody treats your face, your skin or your hormones”. Useful, on theme, and it is what the campaign publishes afterwards.

08 / THE CAMPAIGN

Eight weeks, hung on one week of material.

The shoot in week two is the centre of the campaign, not the evening itself. One controlled day produces the portraits, the interview masters, the ninety second film and the footage the education series is cut from. That material is what carries Medlyfe from November through to Chinwe's next visit, and it can only be made while she is in the country.

	When	What runs
Before	Weeks 1 to 3	The announcement of what Medlyfe now offers across both halves of the theme, issued with the portrait set to health, business and lifestyle desks. Two preview interviews recorded under embargo. Invitations by hand and then by telephone, because a printed invitation followed by a call fills a room and an email does not.
On the night	Week 3	Press in the room with two interview slots in the side room, and the crew covering the evening.
After	Weeks 4 to 8	The preview interviews land. One broadcast or podcast appearance. The education series publishes weekly, eight short films and four written pieces cut from the masters, split across the two halves of the theme. The takeaway goes behind the enquiry form, which is what turns a reader into a name.

The media plan, as agreed on 28 September

Bought placement, separate from the earned coverage the liaison works for. BellaNaija opens the longevity conversation before the night, Guardian Life is the anchor partner and covers the evening live, and the news placements that follow give it credibility rather than reach.

When	Outlet	What	Angle	NGN
10 to 14 Oct	BellaNaija	Editorial feature, web and social	Rethinking ageing	188,125
15 Oct	Guardian Life	Live coverage, Instagram post and website story	Beyond beauty, body confidence	1,500,000
16 to 29 Oct	The Guardian	News story placement	Reconstructive surgery	150,000
16 to 29 Oct	BusinessDay	News story placement	Longevity as a health and economic shift	200,000

When	Outlet	What	Angle	NGN
16 to 29 Oct	BellaNaija	Carousel post, fifteen images	Event highlights	215,000
16 to 29 Oct	BellaNaija	Standalone video	Event recap and guest voices	376,250
	Total		As invoiced	2,629,375
			If any outlet charges VAT at 7.5 per cent	2,826,578

Guardian Life is 57 per cent of the media budget and it buys one day. That is the right call for an evening that only happens once, because live coverage cannot be bought back afterwards. It also means the night has to be worth covering: if the room is thin or the panel is flat, that is the line that is wasted and the only one that cannot be re-run. Everything after the tenth is recoverable. That one is not.

How Dr Kpaduwa is described, in every piece of this

This governs the announcement, the invitation, the captions, the interviews, the film and anything anybody says from the stage. It is checked before a word goes out, not after.

		Why
We say	Promoter of Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology	A business role, not a clinical one. She is building a company, which is true, sayable and does not depend on anything being finalised.
We say	Clinical lead behind the Medlyfe aesthetic service	She designed it, wrote the protocols and trains the clinicians who deliver it.
We say	Treatment delivered by Medlyfe's own registered clinicians	Named, present on the night, on the panel.
Never	Not here to start seeing patients	No copy, caption, invitation or interview says she is taking patients, consulting, treating or operating in Lagos.
Never	No appointments with her	The desk books consultations with the clinic. No version of the booking flow offers her name as the clinician.
Never	No surgical dates and no surgical promises	Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology is spoken about as being built, and the list is interest registered against an opening.

This is a stronger position than the obvious one, not a smaller one. An evening built around a visiting surgeon sells her diary, which runs out the moment she boards a plane and leaves the clinic explaining her absence for three months. An evening built around a service she designed and a team she trained sells something that is open every week of the year, and it is the only version that still works in February.

Four lines we hold, and they cost us nothing we wanted

	Why
Nobody is paid to bring us a patient	No commission to a doctor, a salon, a concierge or a host, and no influencer arrangement, paid or gifted. Paying a moderator to chair a panel is a different thing and is perfectly proper.
No claim that anyone is better than anyone else	Training, board certification and what a clinician does are statements of fact and are properly said. No best, no first, no only.
Clinical images only on explicit written consent	Required by the Council's guidance on online conduct of 14 October 2025. None of it in this window in any case.
No branded giveaways	Part F names the category down to calendars and wall clocks. The takeaway is a piece of writing, not merchandise.

09 / THE BUILD

Ten days, and every one of them is spoken for.

	Dates		What happens
Week 1	28 Sep to 2 Oct	Lock it and start calling	Venue contracted by Wednesday. Theme and identity signed off. Both guest lists built from Medlyfe's book, the corporate channel, the three hosts and the doctor list. Panel and chair approached. Enquiry form and booking page live. Invitation designed and at the printer by Thursday. The telephone calls start Wednesday, ahead of the card rather than after it.
Week 2	5 to 9 Oct	Make it	Shoot on Monday: portraits, interview masters and the ninety second film, one day on a controlled set. The Medlyfe presentation, the panel brief and the conversation built Monday and Tuesday. Announcement issued Monday. Preview interviews recorded under embargo. Cards delivered against calls already made, and the telephone chase runs all week.
Week 3	12 to 16 Oct	Hold it, then deliver it	Final numbers Monday and the room re-called Tuesday, because a list built ten days out decays. Supplier confirmations and the set in on Wednesday. Run through Wednesday afternoon. Thursday 15 October 2026, with the crew and the press in the room. Follow up begins inside 48 hours, which means Friday.

Three weeks is tight but it is the right length, because the two things that actually fill a room are a printed invitation and a telephone call, and both work better at short notice than at long. What three weeks does not tolerate is a decision waiting a fortnight. The venue has to be contracted this week and the invitations have to be at the printer by the end of week one.

10 / THE SEVEN WEEKS

What the evening is supposed to produce.

	Dates		What happens
Week 4	19 to 23 Oct	Convert	Consultation clinics open on both sides of the menu, at capacity. Preview interviews publish. Every doctor who came is called.
Week 5	26 to 30 Oct	Publish	The education series starts, one piece a week. The takeaway goes live behind the enquiry form. Second round of referrer follow up.
Week 6	2 to 6 Nov	Hand over	The Medlyfe team takes the list, the booking discipline and the publishing calendar. Broadcast appearance.
Week 7	9 to 13 Nov	Build the bench	Training and credentialing weeks with the clinic team, signed off by her. The surgical interest list confirmed and consented.
Week 8	16 to 20 Nov	Close	The report: what the evening produced, what is in the pipeline, and the brief for edition two.

What we are held to by 13 November

	Target	What it has to mean to count
Qualified names, with consent	373	Named, reachable, interest recorded, consent captured under the Nigeria Data Protection Act
Consultations held	80	In the clinic, by Medlyfe's own registered clinicians, across both halves of the menu
Doctors who have agreed to refer	15	Met the team, hold the direct line, and have had a first referral answered properly
Registered interest in the surgical service	20	Consented and recorded against the service opening rather than against any date or any person

How those numbers are arrived at

Source	Reached	Rate	Names	Basis
The room on the night	100	100%	150	Every guest is a qualified name, and each brings half of another afterwards
Doctors in the room	25	60%	12	60 per cent agree to refer, 0.8 referrals each inside the window
Medlyfe's existing book	900	13%	117	Consented patients contacted directly, plus leaflets in the clinic
Press and the series	900	6%	54	Reach is unreliable, so this is deliberately the most conservative rate here
The corporate channel	500	8%	40	Executive wellness lists inside the group's corporate clients
Qualified names			373

		How it follows
Consultations	80	27 per cent of the list would be 101, and the clinic can hold 80 in the five weeks after the evening. Capacity is the constraint, not demand
Treated in the window	32	40 per cent take a treatment at about NGN 300k, and a quarter come back once
Revenue before 13 November	NGN 19.0m	Earned by Medlyfe, from work delivered by its own registered clinicians
Interest in the surgical service	20	25 per cent of consultations register interest, consented, with no money taken and no date given
What that is worth when it opens	NGN 100m	At the modelled average case of NGN 5.0m

It does not pay for itself by November, and I would rather say so here than have you find it later. The evening and the campaign earn about NGN 19.0m of treatment revenue inside the window against NGN 15.9m of spend. What they actually produce is 373 qualified names, a list of people waiting for the surgical service worth around NGN 100m when it opens, a referral network, and a library of material with Chinwe in it. The whole programme is recovered on the first 4 operations.

11 / WHAT IT COSTS

Line by line, and what can come off.

	Amount
The evening	NGN 8.86m
The campaign	NGN 4.83m
Website and print	NGN 1.20m
Programme costs, at cost	NGN 14.89m
CFA operational cost, a contribution rather than a fee	NGN 1.00m
Total	NGN 15.89m

The evening and the campaign, at cost

Every line below is committed against a written quote, approved before it is committed, and invoiced at the amount on the supplier's invoice. We take no commission, margin or rebate on any of it, and unspent contingency is returned rather than absorbed.

	Item	What it covers	NGN 000
The evening	Venue hire	Four to five hours for a three hour event, in a space that takes outside catering	800
The evening	Setup and technical	Chairs, staging, styling, florals, sound, lighting and the screen. Capped	1,000
The evening	Canapes	Three piece set at 15,000 per head inclusive of service charge, 133 in the room	1,995
The evening	Drinks	Three hour bar at 6,500 per head	864
The evening	Music	DJ, briefed. Under the conversation, silent through the chat and the panel	300
The evening	Chair and panel	Honorarium for the chair, transport and hospitality for the panel	700
The evening	Film and photography	One crew across two days. Portraits, interview masters and the ninety second film on a controlled set, then the evening itself	1,400
The evening	Invitations, programme and the takeaway	Design, print and hand delivery	950
The evening	Guest management and front of house	Registration, ushers and the consultation desk	350
The evening	Contingency	Held against the event lines only, released or returned	500
The campaign	Paid media placement	The agreed plan of 28 September: BellaNaija before and after, Guardian Life as the anchor partner on the night, and news placements in The Guardian and BusinessDay. Itemised outlet by outlet under The Campaign. VAT is added only if the outlets charge it	2,629

	Item	What it covers	NGN 000
The campaign	The education series	Editing, grade, captions and design for the twelve pieces	1,800
The campaign	Media logistics and licensing	Transport, stills licensing, transcription and the coverage report	400
Website and print	The event and campaign website	One site carrying the invitation, the programme, the enquiry form, consent capture and the takeaway. Built once and reused by every edition	500
Website and print	Hosting and messaging	Three months at 100k	300
Website and print	Patient information and clinic collateral	In premises leaflets and consent forms	400
	Total		14,889

What CFA charges, and why it is not a fee

Cost, and nothing else. CFA is a shareholder in this venture, so for the launch edition we are charging what it costs us to run and nothing else. No rate card, no margin and no management fee. That is NGN 1.0m of operational cost against 19 days of our own time across the eight weeks, which we are not billing. It is specific to this edition. It is not the basis for the services agreement, which is separate and already documented.

What it costs us to run		NGN 000
Programme lead	Part time across the eight weeks	500
Event and campaign executive	Through the build and the night	300
Coordination and data support	Guest lists, the enquiry record and the Friday dashboard	100
Travel and logistics	Venue recces, supplier visits, invitation delivery runs and the event day	80
Communications, courier and print	Calls, dispatch and working documents	20
Total	Recovered, not charged	1,000

What those nineteen days cover

Workstream	What it is
Concept and creative direction	The series, the theme, the run of show, the art direction, the takeaway, and the conversation and service talks built with Dr Kpaduwa and the Medlyfe clinicians.
The evening	Venue and suppliers, the panel and the chair, both guest lists, invitations and the telephone chase, the run through, front of house, the consultation desk, and the follow up loop after it.
The campaign	Announcement, press relations, the shoot, the interview programme and the seven week publishing calendar.
The website, the list and the bookings	The event and campaign site, the enquiry form, the consent record, the clinic diary, the follow up discipline, and the one dashboard everybody reads on a Friday.
Handover to Medlyfe	Four named Medlyfe people paired from week one, each taking their piece on a dated week, so the campaign runs without us after 13 November.

What nineteen days stretches to, said plainly. We direct rather than staff. We hold the concept, the suppliers, the guest lists, the run of show and the campaign calendar, and we are in the room on the night. What nineteen days does not stretch to is sitting inside Medlyfe doing the daily execution, so the four named people below are not a courtesy, they are how the work gets done.

It is a capped recovery rather than an open account. If it costs us less we invoice less. If the programme overruns, which an event with a three week build will, that is ours to carry.

Payment

Recovered		Amount	Against what
On approval	80%	NGN 0.80m	The venue, the crew, the printer and the anchor outlet are all settled before the night

Recovered		Amount	Against what
After the evening	20%	NGN 0.20m	The campaign weeks, and the account reconciled against what was spent

If the number needs to move

Comes off	Saves
The education series	NGN 1.80m
Paid media placement and media logistics	NGN 3.03m
The portrait and interview shoot	NGN 1.40m

Take the education series off first and the press retainer second. I would argue hard against the shoot, because it is the only line that cannot be bought back later: the portraits, the film and the interview masters need Chinwe in front of a camera, and after November that is not available at any price until she returns.

12 / NEXT YEAR

Three visits, three editions, as Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology Introduces.

	When	What it introduces
Edition two	First visit, 2027	The first edition as Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology Introduces. The surgical service and the partner theatre, with the first operating list running in the same week.
Edition three	Second visit, 2027	The team she has trained, presenting their own work, which is the evening the practice stops being one person.
Edition four	Third visit, 2027	Whatever is next. By then people come because the series is worth attending.

Each of those costs a fraction of this one, because the format, the identity system, the set, the lists and the press relationships are already built and were built to move. That is the argument for spending properly on the first one.

The handover is worth stating plainly now rather than negotiating later. Edition one is hosted by Medlyfe and paid for by Medbury, and the format, the lists and the material it produces carry across to Lyfe Plastics & Dermatology when the series moves. Nothing about hosting the first edition attaches the series permanently to Medlyfe, and nothing about the move takes the value of it away from the party that funded it.

TO START

Three things this week, and then we build

	What	Whose	Detail
1	Approve the budget	Dr Itunu Akinware	The venue and the printer both need committing in week one. NGN 0.80m on approval
2	Confirm the date and the 10 days	Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa	Thursday 15 October 2026, the shoot in week two, and the training weeks
3	Name the four Medlyfe people	Dr Itunu Akinware	Coordinator, marketing lead, operations and clinic lead, paired with our team from week one

What we are asking of Dr Kpaduwa, to the half day

	Days	When
The shoot	1.0	Week 2. Portraits, interview masters and the film
Building the conversation	0.5	Week 2, with us
Press	1.0	Two preview interviews, and one broadcast appearance
The evening	1.0	Thursday 15 October 2026, from the afternoon run through
Protocols and the clinical standard	2.5	Written down, so the service has a standard that does not depend on who is in the country
Training and credentialing the team	2.5	Weeks 4 to 8. The clinicians who deliver the service, signed off by her
Case review with the treating clinicians	1.0	Weekly, with the clinic team rather than with patients
The Friday call	0.5	One hour a week
Total	10.0	Across eight weeks

What Medlyfe provides

- The clinic, its diary, and the registered clinicians who hold the consultations and deliver treatment on both sides of the menu
- Medlyfe's patient book and the corporate channel, with consent
- Four named people from week one doing the daily execution alongside us
- The telephone chase on both guest lists, which is the single thing that decides whether the room is full
- Decisions inside 48 hours

And the four people, paired from week one

The work	CFA	Medlyfe	Takes it
The list, bookings and follow up	CFA consultant	Patient coordinator	Week 4
Content, channel and press liaison	CFA senior consultant	Medlyfe marketing lead	Week 5
Event and supplier management	CFA principal	Medlyfe operations	After the evening
Clinical standard and protocols	Dr Kpaduwa	Clinic lead clinician	From week 1

What we have assumed

- The evening is Thursday 15 October 2026, which needs the budget approved and the venue contracted within days rather than weeks. The fallback is Thursday 22 October.
- Dr Kpaduwa is in Nigeria to at least Friday 20 November 2026.
- Venue and catering are budgeted at Island rates as at September 2026 and confirm against written quotes in week one.
- Medlyfe can hold two consultation days a week across the four weeks after the evening. That ceiling, not demand, is what caps the numbers.
