Summary

- Aim: by the end of April 2027 each of you can run the analyst work on an engagement without close direction, and has the record to show it.
- Three parts: the work on live engagements, the Academy curriculum, and a monthly evaluation that ties them together.
- Time: two hours of protected learning every Friday, on your desk as "Learning hour".
- Outcome: from month three, an evaluation can recommend you for the firm's first consultant tier. That recommendation is earned on evidence, not time served.
- Supervision: Favour and Ruth report to Ezinne Orji. Abigail reports to Debo.

1. The six months

Months	Stage	What you should be able to do by the end
November and December	Foundations	Keep an engagement record accurate without reminders. Minute a client meeting the same day. Raise a block early with a clear reason.
January and February	Ownership	Run a standing item end to end, including the follow-up. Prepare a meeting pack the engagement lead uses with light edits. Produce a first-draft analysis from client data.
March and April	Contribution	Own one defined piece of client work under the engagement lead, from brief to submitted draft. Brief a newer colleague on something you now know well.

Each stage builds on the one before. Moving early is welcome when the evaluation shows it.

2. The Academy curriculum

You are enrolled in all five foundation courses on the platform under Academy. Take them in this order.

By	Course	Hours	Why it matters here
30 November	CFA Platform and Engagement	10	How engagements, tasks and deliverables run on the platform
30 November	Professional Standards	8	Confidentiality, client conduct, how we write
31 December	Core Consulting Skills	24	Structuring a problem, research, analysis, presenting
31 January	Healthcare Fundamentals	20	How hospitals in this market work and where they break
28 February	Financial Literacy for Healthcare	16	Reading a hospital's numbers: revenue, costs, cash

- Pace: about one module a week fits inside the Friday learning hour.
- Use it: each Friday, write two lines on the Learning hour task saying one thing you learned and where it applies to a live engagement. That note matters more than the quiz score.

- After February: the firm will sponsor one specialist course for each of you, chosen with your supervisor to fit the engagements you are on.

3. How progress is measured

Measure	Where it comes from
Quality of work	Tasks approved first time versus sent back, from the task history
Reliability	Tasks done on time, overdue, and blocks raised early
Learning	Academy modules completed against the dates above, and your Friday notes
Contribution	What the engagement leads say about your work on their projects

Your supervisor reads this every month before your evaluation on the 28th. The evaluation scores five areas from 1 to 5. A 3 means doing the job well, and that is the expected score. You will hear the scores and the reasons in a conversation before anything is written down.

4. What we ask of you

- Keep your task statuses true. The record is how your progress becomes visible.
- Ask early. A question on day one costs nothing; the same question on the due date costs the deadline.
- Before each evaluation, send your supervisor three lines: what you delivered, what went wrong, what you want to learn next.
- Help each other. Teaching something is the fastest way to find out whether you know it.
